

Choices for Connecting

In Nonviolent Communication™, the aim is to stay in connection with ourselves and / or with others. However, in the heat of the moment we don't always recognise that we have a choice in how to respond. More awareness gives us greater freedom to choose a response that is most likely to create a connection.

